SMALL REFINERIES CRY "FAILURE" AS "GAS" WAR SPREADS

Governors Investigating With View to Knocking Prices from Top.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Chicago—Many of the smaller refineries are faced with failure unless they are protected and obtain a price that will equal the cost of production, according to a statement brought out by the gasoline price war, started by South Dakota and which has spread to several other states, which have brought the price of gasoline down to a range of 11 to 25 cents a gallon at various places.

Sales Are Trebled.
In South Dakota, where Gov. W. H. McMaster declared the former price of 25 cents a gallon "was no less than highway robbery" and obtained a large quantity of gasoline to be sold by the state at 16 cents a gallon, gasoline sold Sunday for 15.5 cents a gallon—the lowest price in 10 years. Drivers adopted the slogan "fill her up" and sales were reported trebled.

Independent dealers in South Dakota said they saw only bankruptcy ahead and announced they were where a 3 cent reduction is predicted. George F. O'Neill, president of the O'Neill Oil and Paint company, declared that unless the Oklahoma producers can be protected, they will be forced out of business.

In Texas Sunday gasoline sold from 11 cents in Dallas to 19 cents in Houston. Nebraska got into the fight when Gov. C. W. Bryan sent a telegram to the Oklahoma companies requesting a reduction in price.

Small Is Investigating.
As the result of the agitation in the central west, Gov. Lea Small of Illinois, announced he was investigating the situation with a view of taking action. Officials of the Standard Oil company in Kentucky intimated that there soon would be a reduction in Kentucky. Gov. W. F. Morrow of that state said he had no public funds for handling the sale of gasoline. St. Paul state that the two refining companies there have announced they will sell gasoline from trucks at 10 cents a gallon.

Some Minneapolis independent oil companies said they could obtain gasoline laid down there for 11 cents a gallon. Others, however, declared that was an unusually low price.

12 Cents by Carload.
According to G. Roy Hill, secretary of the Minneapolis Automobile club, he has quoted an offer of 12 cents a gallon for gasoline in one load lots. The influx of California oil and gasoline in large shipments through the Panama canal to Atlantic ports, the refineries east of the Rockies have been forced to sell below cost of production and are in consequence in danger of going out of business.

Aubrey G. McGuire, president of the Bartles-McGuire company declared.

MILWAUKEE PLANS TO SELL GASOLINE AT COST
Milwaukee—Plans to sell gasoline purchased by the city to the public at cost prices were begun today by Thomas W. Duncan, secretary to Mayor Hoan, and Alderman Arthur W. Shults.

A request was made to City Purchaser J. W. Nicholson for $5,000 worth of gasoline and the use of the city filling station, where it is proposed to dispense the gasoline, for which the city pays 13.5 cents a gallon, for low test and 14.5 for high test, at exact cost. This is about 10 cents a gallon under the service station prices.

If the city has sufficient gasoline to continue the service, then the original order of $5,000 will be duplicated. It is also probable, officials say, that other service stations, or some means of distribution to the public can be found.

Four Possible Cabinet Changes Are Discussed by Politicians

Washington, D. C.—President Coolidge made it plain in a public statement soon after becoming the nation's chief executive that he wished the cabinet, as well as other branches of the government, to remain as they are. There has been no talk of dis-son among members of the cabinet. But certain other conditions point, nevertheless, to four early changes in the official family of the president.

The four men who may retire from the round table in the near future, according to general belief, are: Secretary Mellon, Attorney General Daugherty, left and Navy Secretary Denby.

Guns on Guard as Zinc Plant Opens

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Hillsboro, Ill.—A guard of 300 troops and a host of machine guns greeted employees of the American Zinc company when they returned to work here today. At 7 a. m. about 100 men had entered the plant prepared for work. The plant has been closed since Thursday when one employee was shot during a riot between strikers and workmen attempting to go to work.

Six machine guns were planted at the entrance of the plant with two more held in reserve nearby. A guard line thrown completely around the property of the company was manned by several of the ten units of Illinois national guard on duty here. Most of the returning workmen came in automobiles which were parked within the guard line on the company property.

The names of those returning to work as given by their fellow workmen indicated that most of them were Anglo-Saxons and that very few of the several hundred Mexican and Spanish employees were returning.

U. S. MAY HAVE TO STRUGGLE ALONG WITHOUT GROVER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Eberbach, Germany—Grover Cleveland Bergdall, American traitor, said last night he expected to return to the United States with his mother on Sept. 27, but that last Saturday's effort to kidnap him made him hesitate about doing so.

Mrs. Bergdall was not in the hotel when the attempt was made to seize her son. Bergdall has not been arrested but has made a formal statement to the police.

The four men held in connection with the attempted kidnapping were removed last night to another place in Baden, the name of which was not made public. They are: Griffith, a former American lieutenant; Faust, a German; a Russian prince; Roger Sperber, a French detective and a citizen of France; and John Nielson, an American chauffeur.

Karl Schmidt was shot three times by Bergdall and died without making a statement. He was a Swiss citizen. The shooting occurred in a dark room. Bergdall fired six shots, three hitting Schmidt, two striking her arm, and one going wild. Sperber will be charged with attempted murder and the others will be charged with complicity in a murder conspiracy.

UNCLE SAM OPENS DRIVE TO PREVENT HARD COAL STRIKE
Washington—The federal government moved today to avert an anthracite strike by inviting representatives of both the operators and miners to enter with the coal commission here immediately.

For the present, at least, it was indicated the president desired to leave the situation entirely in the hands of the commission. Whether or not he would take any more direct steps later to insure an agreement has not been revealed.

There is no doubt, however, that Mr. Coolidge is fully advised regarding the break between the operators and miners, which is threatening a suspension of work in the anthracite mines Sept. 1, and will remain the closest touch with all developments.

Storms Add to Fun of Week-End at Rotardale

BY ONE OF THE CAMPERS
Usually a storm is not regarded as a contribution to the joys of camp life but this was the case Saturday night at Rotardale, according to the Janesville business girls who were week-end guests of the Y. W. C. A.

The first storm was over long enough before dark to give them who so desired an opportunity to revert to the childish pursuit of wading barefoot through all the puddles that could be found on the camp grounds. "Nearly everybody swims or tries to in the lake," but wading in rain puddles and brooklets is an experience that makes one feel that she is a "child again, just for tonight."

Then there was the rainbow across the lake and the panorama of colors which are painted on the sky when the sun sets while rain clouds are still swirling through the sky.

Four Tents Going Over.
"If you can't swim, don't go," was the ultimatum of Miss Helen West, physical director, when as the shadows lengthened some of the girls suggested a night swim. So suggested by one who could not swim, they went to their tents and made ready for slumber. We were rudely awakened a few hours later by the second storm. After donning coat and slipper, we were forced to get up and turn on the lights and then lay huddled on our cots wondering when the tent was going to be lifted from over our heads. Presently, we were assured by the "camp" secretaries that the tent was not going to be lifted from over our heads.

Miss Hamilton explained that there were no "camp" secretaries at the location of the camp in the little vale surrounded by hills. Miss West carefully inspected all the tent ropes to make sure that none was straining. Our fears thus quieted, we went to sleep to the lullaby patter of the now gently falling raindrops. Our "subconscious" had duly registered Miss Hamilton's statement that the tent was not going to be lifted from over our heads.

How Sunday Was Spent.
Sunday was spent quietly. There was a religious discussion and song service at 11:30. The Y. W. C. A. had a picnic at the lake. The camp cook had been killed by the storm during the night. The arrival of Frances Field who made the excellent coffee which we all enjoyed at breakfast. Miss West used up some of her own abundance of chief acting in the camp. It is a camp rule that everybody must turn at dish-washing, but "Mack" always washes the horrid pans and kettles. Every body had a bath. The afternoon took the easy most of the afternoon. Then there was another swim, followed by a picnic lunch around the campfire. There was a game of basketball before Alfred Glancy appeared on the scene to drive us back to Janesville.

Hasty Conclusion.
LOSES FAT FEE TO IMPATIENT DOCTOR
Paris.—A Paris surgeon is telling a good story against himself. He called in to operate on an American woman for appendicitis, and when the cure was complete the patient, seeking to show her gratitude in some way that was not too common place, embroidered a cigar case and took it to the surgeon.
Unfortunately the surgeon had just had a run of patients who had paid for his services by presents of little intrinsic value, so he could not help saying, "No, really, Madame, take away such rubbish; a thousand franc note would be much more acceptable."
"All right," said the American woman, and handing the cigar case she drew a thousand franc bill from it, laid it on the table, and said coolly, "There were five others like it in the case."

Of the tribal dances those of the Paduangs proved the most popular. The Paduangs are noted for the enormous rings they wear. The brass rings worn about the neck, arms and legs of one woman often weigh over 50 pounds. Those of the neck are about 15 pounds, are considered the most important. Their purpose is to elongate the neck. A girl starts wearing such rings from childhood, as the neck stretches, additional rings are added. The woman who has the longest neck is considered the most beautiful and the most to be desired as a wife.

BURMANS IN WEIRD TORCHLIGHT DANCE

Inauguration of States Is Marked by Exhibition of Tribal Rites.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Tanjung, Burma.—The recent inauguration of the Federated Shan states was marked by a remarkable series of exhibition dances. These included tribal dances in which 24 of the hill tribes of Burma participated, as well as the famous animal and bird dances of the Shans.

The entertainment took place in a specially built arena with over 5,000 spectators in attendance. Brilliant and unusual lighting was a feature of the occasion. The thoroughfare leading to the arena was lined with huge lamps in the shape of lotus blossoms. The governor, Sir Harcourt Butler, was escorted to the arena by 200 torch bearers, carrying torches ten feet long and one foot thick, made of bamboo and pine chips.

50 Feet High.
In the opening parade, some of the torches used were as much as 50 feet in height and required 60 or 80 men to carry them. Each torch was followed by several musicians who beat tom-toms and played other weird instruments.

retaries Mellon of the treasury, Denby of the navy and Hoover of the commerce division and Attorney General Daugherty.

Daugherty's health will not permit him to keep up his official duties any longer. Had Harding lived it is doubtful if Daugherty could have remained on the job, no matter how great his desire to serve his personal friend.

Hoover Boom Growing.
The presidential boom which was started for Herbert Hoover several months ago will receive added impetus in the next few weeks because of the change in the general situation. It is believed Hoover will try to resign shortly to free himself for any move he cares to make.

The reason for the rumored desires of Mellon and Denby to quit are of a different nature. Mellon, a multi-millionaire Pittsburgher, accepted the treasury post mainly "to see what he could do in the treasury department and in handling the financial problems of the country. Now, say the political experts, he has become 'disillusioned' and desires no longer to handle the treasury duties.

The navy chief, which Denby occupies, generally has been considered more or less of a "social" appointment. Usually friendship has entered into the selection of the man for the job. This was true in Denby's case, as he was more than well qualified for the post by reason of his studies at Annapolis at one time and his constant activities with the military.

There never has been the slightest suggestion that he did not care to continue at his desk, but it is believed that he may hand in his resignation at this time, partly to enable the new president to exorcise the usual prerogative of offering the berth to a personal choice.

There looms a possible chance of Secretary of State Hughes resigning in the more distant future. This action will depend upon how strong becomes the pressure brought to bear on him to become a candidate for the presidency.

In some quarters it is intimated that President Coolidge may be urged to consider a practical "dirt farmer" for the agricultural post held by Henry Wallace. Wallace's work, however, has drawn no criticism and it is believed that the president will not give this matter very serious attention at present.

While little has been said about the interior post it is known that Hubert Work, director, desires to be in the public health service. Some plan may be devised whereby he takes over that department.

The other cabinet members seem destined to retain their posts.

Design Aerial Rams to Demolish Enemy Planes
London.—Heavily armored, steel-plated battering rams, for use in the aviation airships, now being designed, are being constructed secretly by British aircraft experts, says the Daily Chronicle's aeronautical correspondent. These new "toros" of the air will be launched at an immense height from the mother airships and will rush down, guided by a solitary man sitting protected within their hulls, ready to strike hostile airships or bombing planes.

The Riddle of the Spinning Wheel

By M. E. and T. W. HANSHEW

Being an Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective Copyright, 1922, by Doubleday, Page & Co., and published by arrangement with McClure Newspaper Syndicate of New York City.

SYNOPSIS.
In deadly fear of the lives of her father and others in the Duggan household, one of the Duggan girls, Hamilton Cleek, under the name of Delaney, takes up the case of the Spinning Wheel, which on occasions and without the aid of human hands, starts running. Inevitably a death follows. The head of the house is the old trapezoid Sir Andrew Duggan, his son by a first wife, the daughter and a second wife, a French woman and her son, Cyril. It is believed that the wife is plotting for the death of all in order that her son may be the heir of the estate. The girl starts his investigation and finds that the girl, the eldest son, is an electrical expert. He had made his own electricity and adding other modern inventions. It is believed that the second wife is attempting to have Sir Andrew murdered and her own son, Cyril, to be the heir. At a moment when the light is shining on the spinning wheel, the girl, Hamilton Cleek, is slain while seated in her chair in a moment when the light is shining on the spinning wheel. (Continued about it.)

"Pins and needles! Funniest sensation I've ever come across. Brrr! Just like a slight electric shock."
Electric shock! Cleek was beside him in an instant, his face suddenly alight, and his hands searching over the instrument, here, there, and everywhere. Electric shock, eh? That was peculiar, to say the least of it.
The girl stopped suddenly and looked in his breath, and, whispering round upon his heel, clapped the Superintendant upon the shoulder. "And it takes you, after all, to lead us to the actual secret!" he said affectionately, smiling into Mr. Narkom's astonished face. "For here's the thing in a nutshell. What a blind fool I've been all the time! The perpetrator of last night's crime, the mechanism of the spinning wheel, the human life in such a perplexing manner. Here—right here. See?"
"What the—what are you driving at, my dear chap?" ejaculated the Superintendant excitedly, stooping at the pressure of Cleek's arm upon his shoulder. "You don't mean to tell me that I murdered Sir Andrew, do you? Because I'm not fool enough to believe that story—and I'm not dumber enough to be taken by a practical joke. What do you mean, old chap? I'm on pins and needles to know!"
"And it's just those particular pins and needles of yours which have found the thing out," returned Cleek in the sharp staccato of excitement. "Look here! It's as easy as A, B, C—once you've got the hang of it. And that sensation of yours was an electric shock all right. And it was just this spinning wheel—spinning it to you. The thing's wired—see? Devilishly well done, too, and disguised very successfully. But here it is. Under the wheel, and sea-soned like the thing attached, which looks as though it belonged to a part of the machinery—and doesn't. That's a battery by the name of good! But the dick-ens does that battery do. I'd like to know?"
"A whirling sound—hum-hum-hum! That's how they described it to me this morning. Do you remember? Gad! And this is the thing that produced that supernatural sound, then? Just a touch of this switch, and the thing sets in motion. Now let's follow this wiring along to its destination, and that will tell us a good deal."

He traced the line of patch stitching, which was nearly the colour of the old wood as to be hardly discernible unless one really knew its presence, round the wheel, and led to the floor—the thing stood a mere matter of inches from the window sill—and then disappeared through a narrow place in the oak-coloured woodwork which was entirely unnoticed from the raveling it covered, until it reached the window-ledge and corner at the extreme right-hand corner of the middle window, and vanished in a cluster of ivy which clung about the outside of it, sending its tendrils right up to the edge of the sill itself.
Mr. Narkom followed the thing with fascination, poking a finger here and there to help himself. He thought like and imperceptible progress, and was almost as quick as Cleek in leaping out through the low slit to the flower-bed, which those tell-tale footprints had made such a strong impression. Then, of

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON.
Letters May Be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am 17 years of age and have been going with a young man of 18 for two years. I have gone with him only until recently. I went with a young man from a nearby city. My friend did not say much to me, but I could tell he didn't like it. He goes with no one but me. My mother doesn't mind if I go with this young man from the city, but she says she thinks it isn't just fair to my "steady," seeing he doesn't go with other girls. Is she right?

My birthday isn't a great day off and I'm going with whom I care for very much. We are faithful to each other and do not have dates with any other boys. Because we know they would disapprove very much. We have found that they have been making dates with two girls who are decent and have no bad habits. These young men go wrong as they are excellent boys. Please advise us what to do to win them away from these two girls. BOBBY AND BILLY. Probably the harder you try to win the boys away from the other girls the more interest they will take in them. If you find the boys perfect, decent people, let them go, because you would not want to be classed as their kind. If the boys are of excellent character as you believe them to be, they will see their own mistake without any interference from you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please suggest a few articles that would be nice for a girl to give to her steady young man friend? I have been going with a young man for some months. FANNY. Since you are not engaged to the young man a gift from you to him would be out of place. A card at birthdays or holidays is all right.

It is fair for a girl to go with more than one young man unless she is engaged. I can see how your mother feels about the matter, but I question the wisdom of your going with the one boy. Only two often a girl turns down other invitations to go with one boy and then finds that later on he drops her for another girl and she finds herself lonely and without young men friends.

It is not correct to accept a wrist watch unless you are betrothed.

SUMMER COOLNESS

There are still many weeks of hot weather ahead of us. Too many for the woman who has not learned to keep herself cool during our summer heat waves. I was told once by a nurse from a hospital which treated many cases of heat prostration that practically none of the women they treated were properly dressed for hot weather.

You should wear only loose clothes on hot days. If you do this, you can keep off most of your underthings, without fear of looking slovenly. If you have slim or medium figures you can go without corsets and undergarments in the summer. This lets the air reach your skin and keeps you many degrees cooler. If you are quite stout you should wear light slays of loose, porous material.

exercise, and to do nothing but lie in bed, and keep for three months after you are cured, would mean to make an invalid of a healthy person. J. B. F. Household Hints

MENU HINT
Breakfast: Steamed Apples, Rolled Oats, Omelet, Toast, Butter, Coffee, Jam, Raisins.
Luncheon: Escalloped Cheese, Carrot Salad, Baking Powder Biscuit, Prune Whip, Canned Apples, Tea.
Dinner: Baked Chops with Bread Dressing and Lettuce with Mayonnaise, Bread and Butter, Raspberry Custard Pie.

The menu for breakfast gives a well balanced meal. The apples give vitamins, cereal and toast starch, and the omelet gives the essential proteins. For luncheon the cheese is the protein, carrot salad, vitamins, biscuit and oatmeal drops, carbohydrates, prune whip, protein and vitamins. For dinner the chops give us proteins, the potatoes and dressing are carbohydrates, the salad, vitamins, and the pie both starch and vitamins.

TODAY'S RECIPES
Escalloped Cheese—Take three slices of bread, break into small pieces, butter a baking dish, place a layer of bread crumbs, then a layer of grated cheese, salt and pepper to taste, having a layer of bread crumbs on top. One-eighth pound cheese is sufficient for the above amount. Mix one well beaten egg with a cup and a half of milk; pour over bread and cheese. Bake in hot oven.
Baked Chops—Prepare plain bread dressing as follows: Remove crust from one-half loaf of baker's bread, slice and pick in small bits, season with salt, pepper and sugar. Melt two tablespoons butter in one-quart cup hot water and add gradually to bread mixture, mixing well. Add one beaten egg. Into a deep baking dish, well buttered, slide the chops, cover with bread dressing and lay seasoned pork chops on top. Add one-half pint water and bake until potatoes are done.

Raspberry Pie—One pint raspberries, yolks of three eggs, one large cup sugar, one heaping tablespoon corn starch, one-half cup of milk, stir together yolks of eggs, sugar, corn starch and milk; then empty raspberries into mixture and stir all together. Pour into pie shell and bake. When done, beat whites of eggs, sweeten to taste, spread on top and return to oven to brown. This makes two pies. Any desired fruit or berries could be substituted for the raspberries.

CAKE FILLINGS
Caramel Filling—Use brown sugar instead of white, or mix or potatoes caramel syrup.
Cocoanut—One-third cup of froth or grated cocoanut added when taken from fire.
Cher Suet—One-fourth cup each of raisins, nuts and cocoanut.
Chocolate—One-fourth cup of ground chocolate or one square of melted chocolate.
Date or Fig—One-fourth cup of chopped dates or figs.
Jam—Add two tablespoons jam to filling.
Lemon Baltimore—Five figs, one cup chopped peaches, one cup raisins, cut.
Nut—One-third cup chopped nuts.
Orange—Two tablespoons of finely chopped and peeled oranges.
Pineapple—Use three tablespoons of pineapple juice instead of water.

THE TOONERVILLE TROLLEY--

By Fontaine Fox

"CERTAINLY I MEAN IT! GIT BUSY AND CLEAN UP THIS MESS YOU LEFT HERE OR I WONT RIDE YE BACK TO THE DEPOT! I'LL WAIT WHILE YE DO IT."

IT IS DUE ENTIRELY TO THE EFFORTS OF THE SKIPPER THAT THE "GROVE" NEAR THE VILLAGE IS LEFT IN SUCH CLEAN SHAPE BY THE PICNICKERS WHO COME OUT FROM THE CITY.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers about the care of their babies. Any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

CONSTIPATION
Of all the letters that come to this department, far the largest number which have to do with ailments mention constipation as the trouble. It seems to be a very common ailment. It is a breast or bottle fed, sometimes constipation in bottle fed babies being less stubborn than in breast fed babies.

It is useless to go into all of the reasons why babies are afflicted this way, but there are certain things that mothers can do to help it. Before the baby is three or four months old, the formula for feeding is very good, the baby gaining and everything apparently right, the best thing to obviate the condition is to give milk of magnesia in the first bottle. This is a few minutes and then put the baby to sleep. When the baby is a little older this can be dropped and other methods of cure used. The same method will do for the breast fed baby, if the mother has first done all in her power to keep her own bowels in good condition and is eating laxative fruits and vegetables.

When the baby is four months old one can make use of the small chamber every day to educate it to good bowel habits. Grease a soap suppository well with vasoline and insert it into the rectum. Leave it for a few minutes and then put the baby on a well padded cushion held on the mother's lap, the back of the baby being supported by the mother's chest. The suppository will stimulate a movement, and if done at the same time every day for at least a week, the baby will then come to have a movement without the use of the suppository.

As that old saying says, "A mother's love is the best medicine."

Mrs. Mauer Gains 15 Lbs. By Taking Tanlac

For the past three years I've enjoyed the best health of my life. I was a very thin woman, 104 lbs. Scott St. Milwaukee, Wis., in relating her experience with the Tanlac treatment.

"Everybody who knows me knows about my poor health, for I was all the time in bed, and I had severe attacks of malaria and bronchitis that kept me so weak and run down all the time I couldn't do all my household work."

Three years ago, however, I took six bottles of Tanlac, and the medicine put me in perfect health for the first time in my life. I built me up all of fifteen pounds in weight and I haven't had an attack of malaria or bronchitis since. Tanlac is just wonderful!"

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

"Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation for sale everywhere."

THE CHAMBERS SERVICE
The principle of the Chambers Service is simple. While the gas is on, it cooks like any high-grade gas range, only more efficient. But its real service comes through certain patented features that allow you with a turn of a lever to shut off the heat in the range's oven or in the hood on top—so that they'll cook on for hours on retained heat.

ATTACK ON POOL IMPORTANT CASE FOR HIGHER COURT

Madison—The Wisconsin supreme court opens consideration of cases on its calendar for its August, 1923, term when it meets Sept. 18 to call for argument 47 appeals from lower court holdings. Included among the important cases is the one involving the assignment of the northern Wisconsin tobacco pool action against the Bekkedal Tobacco company, involving the existence of that co-operative enterprise.

The pool won its lower court action against the tobacco buying company, which attempted to break contracts held between the growers' co-operative enterprise and the tobacco company. The Bekkedal company contended that the growers' association was a combination in restraint of trade and illegal.

Upon losing its case in the Dane county circuit court, the company appealed at once to the supreme court. The case is set for argument on Saturday, Sept. 22.

Other important cases on the calendar, but not yet on an appeal from the Wisconsin supreme court, are the Wisconsin-Silvestro Light and Power company against the railroad commission and the case of La Crosse, Eau Claire and Chippewa River Electric power rates in these cities are involved.

The August term calendar shows 238 cases up for argument in addition to 20 state cases. A large proportion of the appealed cases are of local interest.

Cases from the Twelfth circuit are: Shure vs. Trickle et al.; Johnson vs. Keller; Roys, trustee, vs. First National bank of Monroe; Rundel-Spence Manufacturing company vs. Blodgett Milling company.

WOOD GLUE IS FOUND THAT WILL RESIST ALL WATER

Madison—A highly water resistant blood-aluminum glue which can be applied without the aid of a hot press has been invented by A. C. Lindau of the U. S. Forest Products Laboratory here. It has been announced. The development of this glue is the latest and most promising advance made as a result of the long continued search by the government laboratory for a satisfactory waterproof glue for wood.

The blood glue now used shows considerable resistance to moisture but all require pressing with steam heated plates, a relatively slow process calling for expensive equipment. The cold press blood glue has greater water resistance than any casein or blood glue hitherto tested by the laboratory, and has sufficient strength for use in plywood. Plywood test pieces which were placed in the fungus pit of the forest products laboratory under conditions of excessive humidity, for a period of one year, required a shearing force of 300 pounds to break them apart, and specimens submerged in water for a period of one month proved to be equally strong.

Not only can this glue be successfully used in making plywood from this veneer, but it has given excellent results with lumber of spruce and other species of low shearing strength. The government now recommends the new product for gluing thick veneer or lumber of heavy dense woods, such as ash, maple, birch and oak. Experimental work is still being carried on in this respect.

COOLIDGE IN FULL SWING OF DUTIES

Cabinet Meeting Tuesday to Tackle Problems Under New Executive.

By ROBERT T. SMALL, Special Correspondence of the Gazette.

(Copyright 1923.) Washington, D. C.—The allegiance of the government of the United States belongs wholly and unreservedly to its new chief executive, Calvin Coolidge.

For a time it seemed that the former transfer of power to Calvin Coolidge was to be made in a manner of the cabinet, silk-hatted and in the dress of formal mourning, left the door of the White House and entered the White House. Coolidge as he arrived in the home town of his predecessor. The cabinet followed President Coolidge to the Harding home, where he stood under the arms of the beautiful park that in Marion is called a cemetery, but did not return again with him to the railway station.

The cabinet remained behind to return to Washington two hours later. On Mrs. Harding's train, President Coolidge was entirely satisfied that they should remain to pay this last bit of attention to the retiring mistress of the White House. The old cabinet on Mrs. Harding's train. President Coolidge and to "The First Lady."

Close to Coolidge. Four of them were with her when the president was stricken. The others accompanied the body from Washington to the funeral in the advance of President Coolidge.

With President Coolidge on the return trip to Washington were the faithful members of the "official cabinet" who have attended him since a few hours after he first took the oath of office. They are Frank W. Stearns, merchant; and William Morgan Butler, lawyer, of Boston. Mrs. Stearns was also of the party, and like the other ladies on the Coolidge train, was dressed in mourning black.

Davis Coming Home.

Today the sample has changed. Calvin Coolidge's period of enforced inactivity is ended. He will meet with the cabinet on Tuesday. By that time a ninth member of the official cabinet will be here, James F. Davis, secretary of labor, returning from Europe Monday noon. This leaves only the secretary of the treasury, Mr. Mellon, out of the official circle. It is understood that the secretary was sent to him, on behalf of Mr. Coolidge, asking him to continue his monetary studies in Europe because of Coolidge's desire to retain him in the cabinet.

The stopped wheels of government began to move again Saturday and soon will be going full speed. The heavy duties of the presidency are upon the shoulders of the man from Massachusetts.

The cabinet is at his command. Only possession of the White House remains to make the transfer of the government complete.

Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Harding. Mrs. Harding, returning to the difficult task of assembling her own personal belongings, and those of her husband, has been assured again by Mrs. Coolidge that she may remain at the White House as long as she desires. Mrs. Coolidge stood by Mrs. Harding at the tomb in Marion. From time to time she patted the arm of the heavily veiled widow of the dead president.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Miller are enjoying a visit from the Doctors' father, Mrs. Rose Stewart left on Saturday evening for a week's visit with friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Tomlin went to Devil's Lake on Saturday afternoon. No provision was made for his entertainment, no house was opened to him. There was neither beat of drum nor salute of cannon to greet him as he entered the town. He remained secluded in his car until it was time for the funeral. Then he drove directly to the home of the senior Harding and entered it to hear the brief prayer which preceded the bearing of the body to the receiving vault. When the cemetery ceremonies were ended, Mr. Coolidge was driven back to the station. His train was not there. He had not been expected back so soon. The president was not the least annoyed by the wait which ensued.

A Plain Citizen.

Special trains have not meant much in the life of Calvin Coolidge thus far. It became known that when he started for Washington after taking the oath of office in that faraway corner of the Green Mountains, known as Plymouth Notch, he had ahead for four seats in the parlor car to the national capital. Railroad officials knew the needs of the occasion; better than the new president, Coolidge was that a hurried special train intercepted him on his way to Albany, and conveyed him to New York, where another special was waiting.

During his stay in Marion there were throngs to watch his comings and goings, but the real interest of Marion was in Warren G. Harding. It was glad to have Calvin Coolidge present, but he was not the central figure of the day. Officially Marion had heard that "Red" Baldwin, a Marion boy, a new boy on the Marion Star, who had carried papers for Florence Harding when she was circulating manager of the Star, had been summarily removed from duty as an aide to the president before his funeral. Marion did not blame Mr. Coolidge for this, but it blamed Washington, and there was undeniable coarseness to the Coolidge party.

The most attentive to President Coolidge in Marion were, however, the men who were closest to Mr. Harding—Jim Pendergast, Dick Crisling, and Orin Tapp. They were the singer and Orin Tapp. They were the Harding president. They welcomed Calvin Coolidge as the friend of Harding.

Auto Road Books.

Still Popular.

Auto road books were distributed to 37 Gazette readers during the week ending Aug. 2 by Theodore J. Haskin, director of the Gazette free information bureau, Washington, D. C.

Forty-two miscellaneous bulletins were given out for 42 coupons received. One each of sewing, eight hundred and U. S. map booklets were given out and two floor covering bulletins assisted. Two grand totals for the week including questions answered amounted to 89.

One of the five questions answered by Mr. Haskin from a Janesville person was the legality of a will not drawn up by a lawyer and names of reliable dealers in roots and herbs throughout the country.

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville—Henry Holden who was operated on at Mercy Hospital one day last week has sufficiently recovered to be able to return on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Miller are enjoying a visit from the Doctors' father, Mrs. Rose Stewart left on Saturday evening for a week's visit with friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Tomlin went to Devil's Lake on Saturday afternoon. No provision

YANKEE FAILURE ON SEA PREDICTED

Europe Believes Merchant Marine Will Peter Out After Struggle.

By DAVID LAWRENCE, Special Wireless Dispatch to the Gazette—Copyright 1923.

Ahead the S. S. Leviathan—Sailed in mid-ocean, her engines stopped and her passengers and crew bled in prayer, the Leviathan, the ship the late President Harding loved so well, paid a tribute to the memory of the man whose greatest passion was the development of the American Merchant Marine.

Friends of the dead president, Secretary James F. Davis, Senator Reed Smoot, Representative Martin B. Madden and A. D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States Shipping Board, told the assembly that no president was greater in his man kindness and none worked harder in the public service.

General James M. Beck said the words of Harding's favorite hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," gave the best epitaph, since he was indeed a kindly light in a troubled world.

After an hour of speeches the ship slowed down and the engines ceased altogether for five minutes. The seas were calm as the bugler blew tips.

It seems only yesterday that the Harding portrait was unveiled on this ship's maiden voyage, July 4. Now it is draped in black.

The Merchant Marine. It is not unusual that many of the sea are wondering what Harding's successor's attitude toward the Merchant Marine will be.

Had Harding lived he would have recommended to the next congress the construction of two sister ships to the Leviathan. He strongly believed appropriations to be forthcoming. Many members of both houses have been to Europe on American ships this summer, returning convinced that the greatest opportunity lies before the United States Merchant shipping, Chairman Madden of the House appropriations committee aboard this ship favors government operation until such time as private capital can be attracted. Mr. Madden is friendly to the new policy and it would not be surprising if new construction were authorized without much debate. Had it not been for Harding's effort toward a subsidy congress probably had not been ready to furnish funds for alternative government operation.

What Europe Believes. Europe still believes that America will flourish more and ultimately sell her ships after the failure of the experiment. The American view held by Lasker and others is that the era of government operation is excellent for training executives, officers and crews handling ships, and for establishing lines so that when private owners begin to operate them they will have the necessary trained personnel and will be able to erect large economies over government operation.

President Coolidge will be faced immediately by the shipping problem. Harding's enthusiasm alone kept many of the best shipping experts in government service. While Coolidge announced a general reticence that he intends to continue the Harding policy, it probably will be essential that he soon make some declaration giving a specific outline of his ideas. Of the domestic questions inherited from the Harding administration, Coolidge will find shipping in most acute need of personal attention. Harding devoted more time to that matter than to any other single question in the last twelve months.

Farley's Position.

Chairman Farley of the shipping board is just entering his new duties after Lasker's retirement. He took the job because of the assurance of Harding's continued interest in overcoming many obstacles. Unquestionably President Coolidge will find it essential to get behind Farley and the board personally, especially in the encounters with congress which called last session to provide a constructive policy. What Harding evolved since March not yet is fully approved. The new bill goes on appropriation when it will be seen whether government operation will permit numerous expenditures which private companies make without a moment's hesitation. It is especially important to know if it will authorize the construction of new types of ships and provide amusements and recreations and other features by which private ship lines attract passenger traffic. The whole subject is new as the government never operated its ships directly before on such a large scale as now planned.

Shipping a Constant Thought.

Shipping was Harding's constant thought. It will be Coolidge's constant worry unless he shares his predecessor's vision of the necessity for aggressive government operation in the next few years.

Disperses German Illusion of America's Attitude

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Munich.—Much animosity against Germans "till remains to be overcome" in the United States, was one of the messages Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, brought back from his recent American trip.

He advised the Germans to have no illusions about the attitude toward their country-folk in general in America.

Cardinal von Faulhaber found that, in the feeling of Americans toward Germany, much depends on the moral powers of reparation shown in future by the Germans themselves.

LOCAL POLICE TO LOOK AFTER FAIRS

Sachtjen Says His Force Is Inadequate to Cover Such Events.

Madison—Local police authorities will have to enforce liquor laws at Wisconsin county fairs this year, Herman Sachtjen, prohibition commissioner, announces. He says that his force of deputies is too small to police dances and fairs.

Complaints from all sections of the state are reported by Commissioner Sachtjen to be flooding his office. The various county fairs are all requesting aid of prohibition deputies to stamp out bootlegging, while local authorities are asking aid to stop drinking at dances.

"With our small force of 12 men it is essential that we devote our time to activity against the manufacture of illicit liquor," Mr. Sachtjen said. "Otherwise we could not scratch the surface of the moonshine traffic in Wisconsin. Local authorities must do policing."

The prohibition commissioner said that the greatest number of complaints received by his department are coming from dry sections of the state. He attributes this fact to the closer attention paid by citizens to liquor drinking in the sections where prohibition opinion is strongest.

Storms Add to Fun of Week-End at Rotardale

BY ONE OF THE CAMPERS

Usually a storm is not regarded as a contribution to the joys of camp life but this was the case Saturday night at Rotardale, according to the week-end guests of the Y. W. C. A. The first storm was over long enough before dark to give those who so desired an opportunity to revert to the childish pursuit of wading barefoot through all the mud-drenched grounds. Nearly everybody swims or tries to in these days, but wading in rain puddles and brooklets is an experience that makes one feel that she is a "child again," just for tonight.

Then there was the rainbow across the lake and the panorama of colors which are painted only when the sun sets while rainclouds are still swirling through the sky.

Fear Tents Going Over.
"If you can't swim, don't go," was the ultimatum of Miss Helen West, resident director, when the shadows lengthened some of the girls suggested a night boat ride. So those of us who couldn't swim crept into our tents and made ready for slumber. We were rudely awakened a few hours later by the second storm. After donning coat and slippers we fared forth to let down the tent flaps and then lay huddled on the floor watching the rain pour down.

After a while the rain stopped and the tent ropes to make sure that none was straining. Our fears thus quieted and the storm abated somewhat, soon drifted off to sleep to the lullaby patter of the now gently falling raindrops. Our "unconscious" had duly registered Miss Hamlen's storm-time pronouncement, "You can sleep as long as you want to."

How Sunday was spent. There was a religious discussion and song service at 11:30. They had a swim before dinner, which, by the way, was cooked mainly by the Hamlen, as Miss West, the popular hostess, had been ill to town during the night to welcome the arrival of a new little daughter. It was Frances Elfield who made an excellent coffee which we all enjoyed.

One of our own abundant energy, acting in the capacity of chief dishwasher. It is a camp rule that everybody must take turns at the dishwashing pans and kettles. Everybody read, slept or otherwise took life easy most of the afternoon. Then there was another swim, followed by a picnic lunch around the campfire. There was time for a songfest before Alfred Glancy appeared on the scene to drive us back to Janesville.

Hasty Conclusion
LOSES FAT FEE TO IMPATIENT DOCTOR

Paris.—A Paris surgeon is telling a good story against himself. He was called in to operate on an American woman for appendicitis, and when the cure was complete the patient, seeking to show her gratitude in some way that was not too commonplace, embroidered a cigar case and took it to the surgeon.

Unfortunately the surgeon had just had a chain of patients who had paid for his services by presents of little intrinsic value, so he could not help saying, "No, really, Madame, take away such rubbish; a thousand franc note would be much more acceptable."

"All right," said the American woman, and opening the cigar case she drew a thousand franc bill from it, laid it on the table, and said calmly, "There were five others like it in the case."

PROMISING CORN CROP IN STATE

Hay Is Scarce; Small Grains Will Show Fair Yields, Says Service.

(By Associated Press.)
Madison—A promising corn crop, a short hay crop and fair yields of small grains feature the August report of the Crop and Livestock Reporting Service here. In northern Wisconsin, crop conditions are generally satisfactory. The July drought greatly lowered conditions in western and southern parts of the state. In the southeastern part, crops are fair to good, and in the remainder of the state conditions are very uneven, depending upon the occurrence of local showers which relieved the drought.

Corn Crop Is Good.
The corn crop in Wisconsin is very promising and is uniformly good throughout the state. The condition of 90 per cent normal is 3 points above last year's condition at this time.

The short hay crop in the southern half of the state is one of the marked developments of the crop year. This year's crop for the entire state falls short by 25 per cent of last year's production. In the southwestern part of the state the yield is only 50 per cent of a full yield, and in most sections only two-thirds of a crop is reported.

No Change in Oats.
For the state as a whole, no change took place in the condition of oats since July 1. Conditions of oats on Aug. 1, or at time of harvest was 81 per cent of normal, which is 11 points below last year's condition.

Condition of barley at time of harvest was 82 per cent compared to 90 per cent last year.
The preliminary yield of rye in Wisconsin is one-half bushel below last year's yield.

Winter wheat yield in Wisconsin is placed at 18 bushels per acre, or 1.5 bushels less than the preliminary yield last year. Spring wheat showed a condition at time of harvest of 77 per cent of normal.

A windstorm that may assume cyclonic proportions threatens Mr. General Public and all the little g. p.'s these days. With the return from Europe of the numerous globe trotting legislators and public officials, to say nothing of unofficial observers who went over to get impressions on "conditions," the European situation probably will become just a little clearer than a good healthy model puzzle. One says the soviets ought to be recognized for the good of the continent and another says that unless the tariff on near-beer to Germany is raised the country may be flooded with marks. In other words each carried what he went after—impressions—but they all differ.

MURDER OF VILLA TO HURRY CRISIS IN MEX POLITICS

The assassination of Francisco Villa probably will serve to bring to a head the political situation in Mexico which is growing hotter each day. The elimination of Villa brings three candidates to succeed Obregon at the next presidential elections into the limelight. General P. E. Calles, minister of interior at present; Huerta, minister of finance, and Raoul Madero, brother of the late Francisco Madero.

The chief of police of Kenosha, Wis., reported for the first time in the history of the city not a single arrest was made on Halloween last year and congratulated the City Department of Recreation in "putting over the recent Halloween doing."

In St. Paul, the playground directors are told to be on the lookout for cases of petty larceny and other minor offenses on the part of boys and to bring the offenders to the superintendent of recreation. Talks with the boys and with their mothers and weekly follow-up talks saved 75 boys from juvenile court and 100 homes in which there are cases of scarlet fever still remain.

COMMUNITIES STILL BID FOR FIRST CITY MANAGER'S SERVICES

Lawrence, Kan.—When Charles Edward Ashburner, city manager of Norfolk, Va., assumes his new job as city manager of Stockton, Cal., Sept. 1, at a salary of $20,000 a year, he will continue to be the highest paid city manager in the United States, according to John G. Stutz of this city, executive secretary of the National City Managers' Association. His salary at Norfolk is $16,000 a year.

"An interesting thing about Ashburner is that he not only is the highest paid city manager in the United States, but he was the pioneer in the profession—he was the first city manager," said Secretary Stutz. "When he accepted the job of manager of the city of Staunton, Va., in 1908 he received only a nominal salary. It was largely through the successful demonstration he gave there that other cities accepted the idea of a city manager was asked by the city of Stockton to fix his salary, he put the figure so high he did not imagine a city of but 50,000 population would accept. Although Norfolk, a city of 10,000, later on the rise in the effort to hold Ashburner, of course he could not annual Stockton's acceptance of his offer."

Ashburner went from Staunton to Springfield, O., as city manager in 1914, and four years later to Norfolk.

More than 300 cities in the United States are operated under the city manager plan, according to Mr. Stutz.

What Is a Certificate of Deposit?

It is the promise of a Bank to pay a certain amount of money on demand, with interest. It is different from an ordinary $5 bill in three ways.

First, it is issued in any amount you wish.

Second, it is payable only to the order of a certain person named on its face; until he writes his name on the back, it is worthless to anyone else who may find it or steal it.

Third, it bears interest at 2% or 3%, according to the number of months, and this is stated clearly on the face of the Certificate.

It is ready cash, but safe from theft, and drawing interest. Maybe you have some spare money right now that should be in a Certificate of Deposit of the strong old Rock County National.

Seventy-Eight Years Ago.

Seventy-eight years ago Janesville was placed on the map as a real community. This is the anniversary of a great day in the history of the city.
Levi Alden was a busy man that day. It was Wednesday and on the following day the first issue of the third paper in Wisconsin territory was to appear. There were a few cases of type, most of the matter was set, the announcement was up, Stoddard the printer had worked hard to make it typographically perfect, the hand press, a second hand one, was in readiness and paper stacked, wet and waiting to make history. The next day, August 14, 1845, the paper was issued. The Milwaukee Sentinel, the Wisconsin State Journal and the Grant County Herald are the only other papers established before that date which are still in existence under the same names. From that day the Janesville Gazette, weekly for fifty years, and daily since 1855, has been a voice of the people of this community and a great territory in Southern Wisconsin. Other newspapers followed and in almost every village and hamlet a paper has been or is still being printed. Wisconsin has a splendid list of weeklies and no state has better equipped, more carefully edited and independently operated daily newspapers than those published in the score of cities of from 6,000 population or over. It is in every sense a free press. It is free from entangling alliances and news and opinion is given publication without fear or favor. That is a matter of pride for the state and has proved a strong bulwark for the people.

Since the hot spell the statement that the average man has but 300 words in his vocabulary has proved false a thousand times in this city alone.

Drainage of the Game Breeding Places.

Response to the call of the Isaac Walton League, the society of fishermen of the country, asking that interest be aroused and protest
be made against the plan for draining the spawning places of millions of wild fowl on the Upper Mississippi river, has been immediate. It is seldom that good farm lands are made from drainage of waste lands like these along the river between Dubuque and Minneapolis. The great louis beds of the Winneshiek on the Wisconsin side of the river will never provide farm lands of value, according to a report made by the expert in soils making the examination.
"But whatever value it might have to speculators in draining it or whatever aspect may be put up to the militarians who are willing that the state should pay out the taxpayers' money for reclamation, there is a greater value in the game fish and the wild fowl which breed here. We have been polluting our streams, killing the fish in millions, taking away a great food supply because we wish to measure everything on this earth by the plain yardstick of materialism. We are blind to what we have in these provisions of nature. There are some people who do not want even a patch of woodland on the farm because it would keep a few acres of ground from producing something immediately available to market.
Let us have need for a woodlot on every farm and the time will come when we all will appreciate the necessity of it as a protection against drought.

The war department has given authority for the drainage of the Winneshiek bottoms lying on the Wisconsin side of the Mississippi, between De Soto and Lynxville. Here is the greatest spawning and breeding ground in the state. We hope Senators Leprout and La Follette will take this matter up and ask for a rescission of the permit. It is time we took account a little more fully of the great asset we have in Wisconsin in the locations for game preserves and park reservations. We have millions of acres which with the land speculator mean something but which to the purchaser and settler mean only bitter disappointment and necessity of abandonment eventually and to the people at large, destruction of the game fish and fowl of the state and beauty spots, which in themselves are an invitation to thousands to come and enjoy.

Blaine, Severson & Co., will reopen the state laundry in a few days. Newspapers may again print serial chapters on "The Rival Washdays."

Secretary to the President.

The resignation of George B. Christian as secretary to the president was a natural result of the change in presidents. The secretary of the president, in these days, is a powerful and important person. He must reflect the president—be his alter ego. He is the buffer between the president and the public which forgets everything but the selfish reason for seeking the president in aid or extenuation of something or other. Mr.
Christian has been a good secretary, an able man and the very fact that he has not permitted himself to occupy the limelight to the exclusion of his chief, nor arrogated to himself honors which may or may not have belonged to him, shows he has been a greater man than the self-seeker who sometimes gets into such a place. Secretary Christian was the liaison officer who kept the president in close contact with the world outside

First Candidate for President

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—Every spring necessarily must have its first robin and every presidential campaign must have its first candidate, and it is to be recorded that the first aspirant to make his formal bid for 1924 honors did so at the beginning of dog days, or the day fever period, in the summer of 1923.

And as the harbinger of spring always appears in the sunny southland, so the first candidate for the presidency hails from that section—Oscar W.
Underwood, of Alabama.

It is to be noted also, that the Alabama senator was not forward or obtrusive in announcing his candidacy. With all due modesty he waited to be asked. The legislature of his state adopted a formal resolution requesting him to become a candidate, he acquiesced with equal formality, and then to complete the record the legislature adopted another resolution asking the democratic national convention to nominate him. A campaign committee was organized in similarly orthodox fashion and the Underwood candidacy may be said to have been launched with all formality.

Senator Underwood has been more than suspected of harboring presidential ambitions since away back in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson first appeared to make the country safe for democrats.
He was one of the big figures in the Baltimore convention of that year, and among the numerous explanations that have been offered as to how Wilson triumphed and eliminated it has been said that it was the Underwood vote that did it.
After William Jennings Bryan put the skirts under Champ Clark.

The Alabamian again was a candidate in 1920 at San Francisco, but at no time was he figured to be really in the running. Next year, however, when he makes his third drive for the big objective, his friends say they will make a fight in his behalf such as has never been put up before, and,
as might be expected, they predict his nomination
with a whoop and two or three hurrahs.

In his speech accepting all the Alabama legislature could offer, Senator Underwood may be said to have announced a platform of three planks—foreign affairs, prohibition and the tarriff. In substance he said that he favors the League of Nations, or some such participation by the United States in the world affairs; that he is for the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law, and that the new republican tariff act won't do at all but must be supplanted by a new law framed along traditional democratic lines.

His position with respect to prohibition is especially interesting in view of the fact that as a senator, he opposed the Eighteenth amendment and voted against the Volstead act. However, Mr. Underwood explains that, since the people of the country have made it evident that they want prohibition, they may have it so far as he is concerned.

Heretofore the wets have looked favorably on Underwood as a possible candidate, while the dries have viewed him askance, and there has been little doubt as to where his sympathies lay. However, he has seemingly come to the conclusion that while there may be a great many people in the United States who think wet, they are overwhelmingly out-numbered by those who vote dry, and that it is good politics, not to say good statesmanship, to cast his lot with the element that has the more votes.

Another important feature of Senator Underwood's speech was his evident determination that he is to be regarded as the one and only almon-er southern candidate. William G. McAdoo, while hailing now from California, is a Georgian by nativity and it is known that he expected to make a bid for southern support as a southerner.
But the Alabamian, it seems, would pre-empt that field.

Heretofore Underwood has served notice that the "solid south" of democracy no longer will stand for having its candidate pushed aside or eliminated simply because he comes from the section that always gives its electoral votes to a democrat, no matter who he may be.

"It may be in the interest of some politicians," he said, "to raise the cry that it is inexpedient to nominate a man from a state that will surely espouse any nominee who maintains the principles of democracy, but I do not believe that any such thought rests in the hearts and minds of the great mass of people in the north. I am sure that our brethren from the north are no longer considering us as vital questions of state, but which the candidate holds, but their first thought is the principles for which he stands and the second, the character of the man."

In 1912 the Underwood supporters laid great stress on the conservatism of their candidate and urged that, while he was from the south, he was essentially the same kind of man he would be if he hailed from New York or any other eastern or northern state and would be found just as dependable.

In this campaign it appears the Underwood candidate is not a nation-wide conservative, for the senator wallops the new tariff law as prejudicial to the interests of the farmers, which may be interpreted as a bid for the support of the radicals and progressives of the west and northwest.

Also, in his earlier race, it was hinted, and even charged that Underwood was such an extreme conservative that "big interests" looked on him with favor and were financing and furthering his campaign in every way possible. This time the senator finds occasion to say that he has neither the financial support nor the organization successfully to make a nation-wide campaign. That may be taken as a denial that any "big interests" are behind his candidacy, or that he expects or wants any such support.

So far as making a nation-wide campaign is concerned, however, or the financial backing wherever to do it, well informed politicians and observers do not believe the Underwood interests will suffer in those respects. They point out that there would be no occasion for launching his candidacy as such an early date if a fight in his behalf on a national scale were not projected.
They likewise say such an ambitious program would be futile if it were not assured of ample financial resources.

Whatever the developments of the next twelve months or so may be, Senator Underwood has at least taught other presidential aspirants two lessons:

First, if you are a candidate, say so, frankly and without equivocation.

Second, if you want to be a candidate, get somebody to ask you to be.

And has shown splendid executive ability in all things.

John Sparks, socialist writer, says Russia no longer deserves recognition. It will cost him a cent to send that information to Senator Brookhart on a postal card.

A great deal of relief may be had for Mr. Coolidge if he will let the volunteer statesmen form his policies.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

OUT IN THE OPEN.

Out in the open, away from the clamor,
The hissing of steam and the sound of the hammer.
Out where you speak to the passer-by gladly,
Where Time isn't lashing and driving men madly.

Out where life isn't just money-paid labor,
Out where it's something to chat with a neighbor!

Out in the open, the wide-stretching spaces
Where one can see more than pale, drawn, Wearied faces still get the sweet thrill of being lonely.

Oh, it is good to get out for this only:
Out in the open, long miles from your doorway, Rejoicing to meet just one man going your way.

Out in the open, the sky's arch unbroken,
Out where the simplest of language is spoken;
Out where life isn't just plotting and scheming,
Out where the plowboy is talking and dreaming;
Out where there's distance and breadth to life's beauty!

And the days break to more than the burdens
of duty.

Out where the minutes like pearls are not counting.

Out where a time-clock has never been mounted.
Where life can be more than the strife for possession
And the soul of a man can have room for expression.

Where mountains and hill tops and trees are the tall things
And man and his buildings are really the small things.

Who's Who Today

REAR ADMIRAL WILLIAM L. RODGERS
Rear Admiral William L. Rodgers, Chairman of the General Board of the United States Navy and senior officer of that service, recently declared the "Law-of-war" movement and pacifism generally.

The League of Nations has minimized
the value of the League of Nations as a factor for peace, except in cases where the desire for peace actually outweighed the causes for war.

Justifying war, he declared that the use of armed force was necessary to undolo law in the world as it exists. He urged that the country to keep itself armed against outside aggression,
and cited the trip of the fleet around the world in 1907 and the sending of the Battleship Arizona to the Mediterranean in 1919 as displays of force which protected the interests of the United States and served to promote peace.

Admiral Rodgers was born Feb. 4, 1880. He was graduated from the U. S. naval academy in 1897. He advanced steadily until becoming a captain in 1909. He became a rear admiral in 1913. He was commander in chief of the Adriatic fleet during the latter part of the war.
He gave up his command in 1919.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 13, 1883.—The dress parades at Bunker Hill every night, of the First Regiment, enjoying their annual encampment here just east of the city, are great attractions, and Saturday night between 2,000 and 3,000 people were gathered to watch the drill.—Mr. Almon Jeffris and Mr. J. J. Sharnock, members of the committee, noon for entrance to the Rock County Fair.

THIRTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 13, 1893.—The Janesville, and in fact,
state delegation to the national G. A. R. encampment at Indianapolis, will be very small this year, as most of the old soldiers prefer to go to the World's Fair. While it is thought that 1,000 would attend from this state, it now develops that there will be under 300.—Cuban cigar smugglers are selling their product here.

TWENTY YEARS AGO
Aug. 13, 1903.—Lake Geneva is being dragged near the spot where Miss Bessie Brown, this city, and Lawrence Dety, Chicago, were seen last in a rowboat.—Tom Joyce is being examined to determine if he shall be held for the murder of merman Zimmerman, a Chicago soldier, who was in the court house park and testimony is hard to get, as all in the party were drunk.

TEN YEARS AGO
Aug. 13, 1913.—Hundreds of people are in town today. Dollar day.—Joseph L. Bear, formerly a member of the board of directors of the supervisors today handed his resignation to the mayor. He represents the Third ward.—More paid men for the fire department practice drills and much new equipment is needed to make Janesville's fire department up-to-date, the state report says.

The New Chambers Fireless Gas Ranges

Cook with the Gas Turned Off

THE CHAMBERS SERVICE

The principle of the Chambers range is simple. While the gas is on, it cooks like any high-pressure gas range, only more efficiently. But its real service comes through certain patented features that allow you to turn off the gas and at the same time seal up the heat in the range, so that the hood on top, both thickly insulated, so that they will cook on for hours or retained heat.
